

The Last Few Years have been tough for theater all over the country, with no exception in Humboldt County. It was a source of much sadness and worry when Redwood Curtain Theater lost their long-time venue in Old Town, Eureka. For a time there, it seemed possible that this beloved two-decade old cultural institution might not find a new home. But then a new possibility emerged...

For 40 years the North Coast Repertory Theatre has been blessed to own a home in their historic venue at 5th and D Street, a historic building that recently celebrated its centennial birthday. NCRT and Redwood Curtain have enjoyed a warm and supportive relationship in the past, and after much deliberation and discussion in 2023, the big decision was made... to move in together!

We Are Incredibly Excited to be producing our third collaborative season together in the 5 & D Street Theater (Wow, the time flies by!) And coming up in 2026, we've got provocative thinkers, heart-warming musicals, and a good old fashioned farce or two up our sleeve. But now more than ever, this theater relies up on the generosity of the community to make all of this happen. Look inside this guide for more information on how you and your business (or a business owner you know) can support not one, but two local arts organization, while advertising to thousands of local arts patrons.
